Serve As Sheets, Towels, Etc.; Black Overcoat Loaned 400 Times

(This is the third in a series of five articles on the day-to-day struggle of a typical working class family in London against shortages of food, fuel and clothing. Inez Robb, INS feature writer, has just returned from London where she spent considerable time with Mrs. Lolly Segrott and her family.)

By Inez Robb

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 18 — (INS) — Dave is the name of the manager of the Ancient Briton, an old and popular pub in London's East Side not far from where Alfred and Lolly Segrott live with their children in a small, cold flat.

Dave has always been a kind man, but in the last four years he has become a famous man in his locale. For Dave owns the only black overcoat in the whole community.

That is very important, for a man does like to look decently clad if he must go to the funeral of a relative or a neighbor.

"I guess Dave has loaned his overcoat full a hundred times since he bought it for his own mother's funeral four years ago," Alfred Segrott estimates. "Everyone goes to Dave when he has to have black clothes and Dave always obliges."

But it is not poverty that has reduced Dave's friends to borrowing his decent black coat. It is clothes rationing. It is a ration system which has reduced Englishmen to the bare essentials in clothing, and sometimes not even that.

Not has it affected only the resi-

Talk on "Cubbing" Given Before Fleetwing Women

The women of Fleetwing Estates Civic Association Auxiliary met for their Christmas party Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. L. N. Harrison.

The gift taken by each member was tagged with half of a Christmas card; the remaining halves were shuffled and then drawn by the women, who proceeded to find the gifts whose cards matched the ones being held.

A brief talk on "Cubbing" and the possibility of forming dens of cub scouts in the Estates was given by the Rev. William Carroll, pastor of Harriman Methodist Church, who was accompanied by a den mother and a Cubmaster. He was introduced to the group by Mrs. Donovan Fagans. The members agreed to discuss "cubbing" possibilities, and a suggestion was made by Mrs. George Kemmerer that "movies" dealing with work of Cub Scouts be shown to women and men of the Civic Association.

The members also moved to obtain small gifts to be given to each child in the Estates on Christmas eve.

The color movie "Pennsylvania," dramatically showing the natural beauty, resources and historical background of this state, was then shown the group.

Green and red-topped cup cakes, brownies, candy and coffee were served by Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Leroy Swan.

Cartoonist Will Appear At Club Christmas Affair

Harry Haenigsen cartoonist, will be the speaker tomorrow evening, when members and guests of the Bristol Travel Club gather in the Club home for their annual Christmas party. Mr. Haenigsen is the creator of the well-known comic strips, "Penny" and "Our Bill" which appear each Sunday in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

A special musical program has been arranged by Mrs. John A. Moyer, chairman of the club's music committee. This will include four selections by Miss Schumacher, harpist of Torradas; a vocal duet by Lester Shire and Joan Marsh; a piano duet by Rita and Helen Clotti; and vocal solo by Barbara Neher and Marcia VanLangen.

The hostesses of the evening will be Mrs. David M. Sheerer, Jr., president of the club, and Mrs. Leon J. H. Hutton, vice-president.

Twenty Class Members Assemble for A Party

Twenty members were present on Tuesday evening at the meeting of the Bible Class of Bristol Methodist Church, taught by Miss Annie Heritage.

A Christmas party followed the business meeting with exchanging of gifts and refreshments served by the hostesses, Miss Annie Heritage, Mrs. Walter Molden and Mrs. Richard Winslow.

The party was held in the banquet hall of the church with a lighted Christmas tree forming the decoration for the table center.

Oswin M. Keeler, who served as an official of the Dublin Fire Company from the time of its organization in 1920, retired from the official staff. Monday evening, when he was succeeded to the presidency by Harold E. Bishop. Mr. Keeler served first as secretary of the company, and later was elected president, a position he held for some years.

All other officers were re-elected as follows: Vice-President, William E. Bishop; recording secretary, Willard Myers; financial secretary, Austin Crouthamel; treasurer, Norman Fox; chief, Lloyd Y. Crouthamel; assistant chief, Robert Kehr; and trustee, Edwin H. Shive.

Sponsored by the Dublin Lions Club, a new organization to be known as the Hilltown Township Lions Club was formed at Dublin on Monday.

The meeting was in charge of Harold E. Bishop, chairman of the extension committee of the Dublin club.

The following officers were elected: President, Charles Detweller;

first vice-president, Alfred Parisi;

second vice-president, Jacob Alder;

third vice-president, Arnon Moyer; secretary and treasurer, Curwen A. Weisel; tail twister, Howard Dunlap; Lion tamer, Leonard Lewis; and directors, Earl B. Frankenstein, Victor Gracias and Robert S. Harris.

The club, which was addressed by District Governor John Soliday, Jr., has 20 charter members.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

An unexpected ray of hope fell upon four-power peace treaty talks yesterday when Russia held out two concessions regarding Austria. She offered in the meeting of Foreign Ministers' deputies to cut her oil reparations claims by one-third and expressed willingness to accept the principle of concrete settlement of all claims in the French compromise she had previously rejected. The British Cabinet, in view of the collapse of the Foreign Ministers' Council, is expected to reinforce Britain's foreign policy.

The United States agreed to assume all but a small part of the occupation costs in the economically-merged American-British zone of Germany. The accord, signed in Washington, gave this country a controlling voice in the area's economic affairs.

Hereafter this country will counter Soviet misstatements and distortions with direct replies, identifying the alleged falsehoods and stating the true facts. Acting Secretary of State Lovett announced. Secretary Marshall is expected to take the lead under the new policy at 10 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, tomorrow in a forthright radio report to the nation on the breakdown of the Big Four meeting.

Mrs. George Zepp Dies Suddenly; Burial on 20th

Mrs. Hettie F. Zepp, wife of George W. Zepp, of Winder Village died suddenly at Abington Hospital yesterday.

After residing all her life in North Philadelphia, she moved to Winder Village two years ago.

The Rev. I. L. Clark, pastor of First Baptist Church, will conduct the services on Saturday at two p. m., at 1125 W. Lehigh avenue, Philadelphia. Friends may call Friday evening.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a sister, Charlotte; a daughter, Marion; two sons, Rowland and the Rev. Howard L. Zepp; four grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

$33,390.64 SPENT IN BUCKS FOR ASSISTANCE

General Assistance Cost $1,812.64 and Old Age Pensions $20,105.90

BLIND PERSONS, $4,760

There was $33,390.64 spent in November in Bucks County for public assistance grants. The amount spent for general assistance was $1,812.64; old-age assistance, $20,105.90; aid-to-dependent children, $6,712.10, and $4,760 for blind pensions.

November marked the seventh consecutive month of decline in Pennsylvania's public assistance rolls. However, the November decrease, which totaled 911 persons was attributable to the old-age assistance and aid to dependent children rolls whereas, in preceding months, the general assistance rolls accounted for the major portion of the decline.

During November, the aid to dependent children rolls decreased by 987 persons and the old-age assistance rolls by 221 persons. The general assistance rolls increased by 218 persons, a reversal of the downward trend which had been continuous in this type of aid since last April. The blind pension rolls increased by 49 persons, continuing an upward trend which has prevailed for the past two years.

Business continued throughout November at approximately the same high level as in October, thereby enabling most people to keep their jobs but offering few new openings to persons of marginal employability. These conditions were reflected in declines in both the number of cases opened and in the number closed.

November expenditures for direct payments to assistance recipients totaled approximately $7,423,000. The Federal Government contributed $2,754,000, or 37 per cent of the total, toward payments for Old-Age Assistance and Aid to Dependent Children. The remaining $4,669,000 was paid from State funds.

The meeting was in charge of Harold E. Bishop, chairman of the extension committee of the Dublin club.

The following officers were elected: President, Charles Detweller;

first vice-president, Alfred Parisi;

second vice-president, Jacob Alder;

third vice-president, Arnon Moyer; secretary and treasurer, Curwen A. Weisel; tail twister, Howard Dunlap; Lion tamer, Leonard Lewis; and directors, Earl B. Frankenstein, Victor Gracias and Robert S. Harris.

The club, which was addressed by District Governor John Soliday, Jr., has 20 charter members.

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS

DOYLESTOWN. Dec. 18 — The filing of an exception or else placing of an appeal from the award of a jury of view has been decided upon by Doylestown borough council.

The jury in question fixed damages to a proposed central parking lot to a Doylestown sub-station, Pennsylvania State Police. The four girls and six boys in question are said to be ready to take tests for operator's licenses after three months of training.

Showing in the tests a special aptitude for reaction time, alertness, field of vision and other qualifications, the ten indicated they were ready for a learner's permit.

After three months of training which included instruction about a car and behind the wheel, the boys and girls can now drive a car safely and intelligently, it is said.

A. Kurtz King, Bensalem Township High supervising principal praising student driver training says it is the most worthwhile study he has ever put into the curriculum.

"I think in the very near future it will be one of the main subjects in school. I urge any school which is not now teaching driver training to take that forward step immediately."

Eugene Klinger, Southampton High school head, said: "I have never had a subject placed in the school that drew more 100 per cent cooperation from the students."

"Parents are being educated to the necessity of driver training education because many of the boys will drive trucks or other vehicles to earn their living," said Mr. Klinger.

and normal investments tended to disappear. The sane, cold judgment so greatly needed to deal with the situation was the very trait most conspicuously absent. The mass of the people, in a sense, "went on a prep."

As for the currency itself, it reacted something like the familiar game of "musical chairs"—and the last one to possess it was the one who got "stuck" with it. Unhappily, in most previous inflation episodes it has been the common man, the working man, the man in the street, who was a little slower than his neighbors in realizing what was going to happen next—and who wound up taking the brunt of the loss.

In the case of the present inflation, the disasters which will result if the cycle is permitted to complete itself are inconceivably greater than in any other such chapter in the past; for banking, insurance and a very great deal of so-called private industry are so closely entangled in currency and government credit that no one can possibly estimate the extent of any threatened collapse.

As the reader will note, most of what has been going on in this country has been running true to pattern. We have the familiar hysteria the price rises, the unwillingness to hang on to money itself, the eagerness to turn cash into commodities, the rapid and dangerous upsurges prices.

Most of the Administration "remedies" are no more than the adding of fuel to the fire. Our king-sized budget, our overgrown taxes, the talk of revaluing gold upward, the persistent issuance of currency which is an evidence of debt instead of assets, the government's unwillingness to let Federal bonds find their own level, the Treasury's zeal in getting currency back into circulation instead of destroying it for what it is—redeemed notes . . .

All of these activities and policies are fanning the flame of inflation steadily higher.

While they continue, inflation will continue—and it hasn't much farther to go before it reaches the run-away stage where nothing will stop it.

Can inflation be stopped at all? In theory, yes; although as noted above, in practice it never has been in the past.

The attack on inflation has to hit it where it lives, which is governmental finances. Inflation is to be shut off there only by reversing the processes which produced it—by spending no more than is imperatively needed.

By cutting expenditures, the pressures which lead the government to resort to inflation would be eased. Moreover, a "spread" between costs of government and present tax receipts would be opened up in which a direct attack on present inflation would be available.

Our currency at this time is about four times larger in volume than it was in the last year of the 100-cent dollar, which was the last year of the Hoover Administration; and there is substantially the same "backing" for the money now as then.

Now a government which was operating "in the black" could easily afford to take the one step by which it ever will be possible to deflate our currency—which is the extremely simple one of burning the paper money as fast as it accumulates in the U. S. Treasury. Our currency is nothing more than notes, read the fine print on a bill and see for yourself the "promise to pay." A private citizen burns his notes when redeemed. Why should the government do anything else with them?

But of course just now President Truman has plenty of ways he

EDUCATION ON WINGS

Many students find unusual occupations to aid them financially in making their way through college. But Eric Linhof, a student at New York University, probably hit upon one of the most unusual.

Linhof, a trans-Atlantic pilot, quits the lecture room on Fridays, dons a uniform of the Pan American World Airways, enters a London-bound passenger plane, and takes off. He studies a bit during his overnight stay in London.

Sometimes fog-bound London keeps him there longer than expected and he misses a class at New York University. He is booked for 35 hours' flying time each week, and he spends 14 hours in classes.

A former student at the University of Rochester, Linhof served 3½ years as an Army pilot, flying a B-24. The Army recently invited him to return to service, but he plans to enter the New York University Graduate School next fall.

Last June Linhof flew to Johannesburg, South Africa, and more recently to Leopoldville in the Belgian Congo. During his Christmas vacation he will fly to Calcutta.

When the recent war began and reports of new inventions and developments were a dime for two dozen, many persons predicted that the postwar world would be almost unrecognizable. For many people the transformation was negligible. But the tremendous increase in transoceanic flying certainly changed Linhof's mode of living.

NOT EPICUREAN

How long can a person survive without too great discomfort on a diet containing only about one-fourth of what is considered the normal number of calories?

Considerably more than a month, according to experiments conducted by Dr. David Schwimmer of New York Medical College.

For 40 days Dr. Schwimmer had 16 volunteers on a diet of 900 calories a day, about half of what striking, demonstrating and otherwise loafing Europeans are getting along on these days. Four times a day the men were fed small biscuits containing 25 per cent egg protein, 30 per cent fat and 45 per cent starch or carbohydrate. They got three glasses of water a day.

There was plenty of point to the experiment. It was to determine a stable life-raft diet for the Army Quartermaster Food and Container Institute. Even a gourmet might be glad to munch little biscuits day after day if they would keep him alive for more than a month—on a life raft.

Apparently they do more than keep people alive. Dr. Schwimmer said that at the end of the 40 days his volunteers were strong enough to play ping pong and cheerful enough not to talk perpetually about beefsteak.

But the nearest restaurant must have done a sell-out business when he let them loose.

would like to spend any billions of dollars which come into the Treasury, either as currency or appropriations, and it is easy to imagine the future of indignation he would steam up if some hard-headed anti-inflationist tried to have part of the currency burned. Yet it is steps exactly like that, and by a long and painful series of such steps, that it would ever be possible to break up the inflationary cycle in this country.

As to the currency inflation, something better than half of the Federal Reserve currency of the country has passed into the U. S. Treasury in the two and a half years since the war. If this had been destroyed instead of twenty-five cent dollars, we would have fifty-cent dollars—that's simple arithmetic.

But as it is, all this money has been treated by President Truman as "government revenues." Some of it he spent for various purposes, and some of it was re-issued to retire war bonds. All of it is back in circulation.

Congress isn't, as the children say, even "warm" either in its suggestions for dealing with inflation, or its analysis of the various New Deal policies which have produced it.

There isn't any "quick cure."

The only way by which inflation can be halted is by a long, hard drive some phases of which beyond question will be unpopular—or at least widely condemned by New Deal propagandists.

We need another Alexander Hamilton to lead the fight.

measure to give the President some of the powers he had demanded prevented a Senate vote on the proposal.

Unless passed early today it will be too late for the House to act before adjournment. The Senate did pass and send to the House a bill authorizing regulation of consumer credits.

Secretary Anderson was subpoenaed by a Senate committee to appear today with all records on commodity speculators. He had taken the position that the law prevented him from making this data public. The House also acted to start its own inquiry. Mr. Anderson will ask Congress to reimpose wartime controls over grain for alcoholic beverages following the refusal of distillers voluntarily to accept a Government quota.

The PCA decision to name Henry A. Wallace for President on a third ticket was rejected by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, CIO. Bartley C. Crum resigned in protest as PCA National Vice-Chairman.

dents of poor, bombed-out Bermondsey.

An executive of Selfridge's, the largest clothing store in London, told me that at least half the men in the Abbey at the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh wore formal morning dress from Moss Brothers, London's largest rental costumers.

It is growing children like Christine, 2, and Alfie, Jr., 10, who are at once the joy and despair of a family like the Segrots. It seems to their mother, Lolly, that they grow out of clothing or wear out garments while her back is turned.

Coupons from other members of the family are always being borrowed to buy clothes to keep pace with Alfie's growth or his strenuous life on Condon's sandlots.

"You can't ask a boy of Alfie's age just to sit still, although I'm sometimes tempted," signed Lolly.

Lolly cannot remember buying a new dress for herself since the war. For the wedding of her daughter Jessie, in Bermondsey Church recently, she had an old blue dress faded by time, dyed black.

But her husband managed 26 coupons for a new suit, the first he has had since 1938. He had also saved up 3 coupons for a new pair of shoes, his first since the war, and for two pair of socks, at 3 coupons each.

There went a year's coupons for Alfred Segrott's suit, shoes and two pairs of socks. If he needs a shirt in the next five or six months, it's just too bad.

Alfred's overcoat, the only one he has had in ten years, was purchased second hand during the war.

It will have to last for a long time to come, for he now estimates that a decent winter overcoat would not only cost many coupons but $80!

It takes ingenuity as well as coupons and money to run any kind of a household in England, whether it is a slum-clearance flat like the Segrots' or a mansion.

I have a hunch that Lolly has more ingenuity than the mistress of the mansion.

Since purchase of sheets can only be made at the sacrifice of clothing coupons, it is often a toss up here whether the bed or its owner is to be outfitted.

But Lolly has solved the problem neatly. During the war, she was able to buy, coupon-free, the very heavy flour and sugar sacks in which such commodities were sent to England.

They are unlike any flour or sugar sacks I have ever seen at home, much larger and of very heavy, hard-woven material.

It takes four such sacks, at 40 cents each, to make a sheet that could substitute for a sail and ought to last a life time. Some she turned into dish towels.

Lolly has had no problem with pillow cases which, for some unfathomable reason, are not rationed.

Handkerchiefs cost clothing coupons, but not for Lolly's family.

Lolly has had no problem with pillow cases which, for some unfathomable reason, are not rationed.

Handkerchiefs cost clothing coupons, but not for Lolly's family.

From her butcher, she buys the fine muslin in which is wrapped the imported beef that comes to England.

For seven and eight cents, Lolly can buy these pieces of muslin, it serves many purposes and is a boon to Lolly's family.

Underwear is just a sometime treat for Englishmen of all classes. The Montmorencys no less than the Segrots pray daily, as they leave home, that they will not be hit by a bus.

All live in terror of being undressed in a hospital and having their patched underwear exposed to public view.

(Tomorrow: Lolly's amazing mother who jigs and does a family washing at the age of 76.)

GYPSIES ARE AGAIN ON MOVE IN EUROPE

Tribes As Colorful As Ever,
But Now Are Mechanized for Travel

CUSTOMS RETAINED

By Bob Ball
(I. N. S. Special Correspondent)

ZURICH, Switzerland, Dec. 18—(INS)—The gypsies are on the move again in Europe, colorful as ever but mechanized now.

The houses on wheels in which they travel, predecessors of the house trailer in which American business men and their wives vacation, are still built on the same old pattern.

But in place of the horse that formerly pulled the menage from place to place, a Model T Ford or other used car of similar vintage is likely to be found.

The young gypsy drivers seem no less proud to be gripping a steering wheel instead of a six foot whip. They eye the road fiercely and drive with a dash in keeping with their heavy gold earrings, but no quite suited to the abilities of a twenty-year-old car.

The house-wagons bump and joggle along as tipsy as ever with dark-eyed gypsy children peering out of the tiny windows and hanging precariously to the porch-like platform built on the back. All the while, the smoke from cooking rises from the smoke flue and zig-zags out of the roof.

What caused the change to modern transportation, none of the gypsies will say. They are equally reticent about where they were during the war years and where they acquired the autos.

As always, they travel in small bands, but now a group on the road looks more like an assembly of Steinbeck Okies than the traditional glamorous Romany vagrants they are.

Practically all of the other proper gypsy customs are still in effect.

They still lavish bright paint and elaborate wood-carving on the wagons. The people themselves are still dark, colorfully costumed, jolly and saturnine by turns.

They still speak their own ancient language, sing their old songs. There are still violins and concertinas and plenty of time to play them.

The whole caravan still camps in one place each night. They still tell fortunes, read tea leaves, dance and avoid heavy work. The political confusion in Europe, the shortage and the rationing seem not to have affected them or their way of life.

They are perhaps the only people in Europe at present who have no political convictions. Being used to taking things as they found them they are quite content to continue doing so.

Yet there's no denying that some of the old zest is gone, and the blame can be put on those auto mobiles. A Model A Ford owned by a gypsy family is still a Model A Ford.

Consider the effect on the long favorite yarn about the young prince carried off by gypsies if the narrator had to admit that he was spirited away at the maximum speed of that faithful four cylinder River Rouge built motor.

But perhaps that story is already passé. There aren't many princes left in Europe, either.

10 Pupils Are Ready For Drivers Tests

Trooper Emery pointed out that both schools have qualified driver training instructors and had no difficulty in obtaining driver training cars which are used in training the boys and girls.

"Both Mr. King and Mr. Klinger will welcome anyone who is interested in seeing driver training and safety education programs in operation if they visit either the Bensalem or Southampton schools," Safety Education Officer Emery said.

Safety patrols throughout the county are being instructed to hold drills in the school buses and see whether the rear door can be opened in case of an emergency.

Trooper Emery said one safety patrol officer discovered that it took two men and a pinbar bar to open one emergency door in the rear of a bus.

"As a safety measure we are asking that all safety patrol leaders in school buses check on the emergency doors to see if they can be used before they have to," Trooper Emery said.

H. H. Seltzer Re-Elected Sec'y-Treas. for 3rd Term

JAMISON, Dec. 18.—The annual meeting of Eastern District Association, Bucks County I. O. O. F., was held at headquarters of Warrington Lodge, No. 447, here, Monday evening.

Selection of officers for the coming year took place, and the following men were elected: Milton Miller, Sr., Hopkins Lodge, No. 87, president; Joseph Gorski, Warrington Lodge, No. 447, vice-president; George Tschauder, Hopkins Lodge, No. 87, chaplain; H. H. Seltzer, Neeshamony Lodge, No. 422, re-elected secretary and treasurer.

Routine business was transacted, 50 members being present.

Lodges represented were: Carlsville, 261; Richard Mickel Encampment, 169; Hatboro; Mystic Lodge, 270; Holmesburg.

Honors were paid members who passed away recently: Harry A. Hughes, Hopkins Lodge; Jesse Goss, Warrington Lodge; Elias Borden and Nathan Forbes, Unity Lodge; and William Earl Mullin, Hopkins Lodge, who fell in line of battle in Italy, June 30, 1945.

Joseph Gorski, chairman of the indoor dart baseball league, informed members that Warrington Lodge was first-half winner, with Neeshamony Lodge and Hopkins Lodge tied for second place. The second half will get under way the middle of January.

The next meeting of the district will be held January 8th at headquarters of Hopkins Lodge, Bristol. Refreshments were served.

Candle-Light Christmas Wedding of Interest to Many

A candlelight Christmas wedding elicited much interest locally last evening. The nuptial ceremony, which took place in Bristol Methodist Church at the hour of seven united Miss Anna Bailey Warwick daughter of Mr. Charles B. Warwick, 601 Bath street, and Mr. Herbert Bartle, 603 Bath street, son of Mrs. Harry Bartle, 1027 Chestnut street.

Yuletide greens were in evidence throughout the edifice and the bride and her attendants wore costumes in keeping with the Christmas season. The bride was attired in white silk satin, the gown entrain, being cut on princess lines. With this was worn a full-length veil of lace and net, a beaded headpiece; and white satin slippers. The bridal bouquet was composed of red poinsettias with two green orchids at the center.

The maid of honor, Miss Alice Smith, Bath Addition, a cousin of the bride, was attired in poinsettia red velvet, and the following bridesmaids in Christmas green velvet. Miss Elizabeth Smith, Bath Addition, cousin of the bride; Miss Bertha Barta, Philadelphia, sister of the bride-groom; and Miss Jeanette Leinheiser, Edgely. The gowns were floor-length and cut princess style, they featuring velvet bustle bows in the back. Each young woman carried a bouquet of white snow 'mums'. Silver sequin head pieces and silver slippers completed the Christmas season costumes.

Mr. Bartle was attended by his brother, Mr. Walter Bartle, Fleetwing Estates as best man; and the ushers were inclusive of: Messrs. Fred Bartle, brother of the bride-groom; Clarence Smith, Bath street, cousin of the bride; Robert Warwick, Bristol Terrace, brother of the bride. The ring bearer was James Smith, Bath street.

The bride entered the church to the notes of a wedding march played by organist, Miss Winifred V. Tracy. Miss Tracy was also the accompanist for Mrs. Ralph Hart, Bath Addition, who during the ceremony sang "The Lord's Prayer." Other vocal numbers by Mrs. Hart were: "Love Thee," "Because," and "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life."

The Rev. Charles Weller, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. Mr. Warwick giving his daughter in marriage.

A reception followed in the church social hall. Mr. and Mrs. Bartle then leaving for a honeymoon trip. They will reside at 501 Bath street.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rev. L. L. Clark, Th. M.
Pastor
First Baptist Church, Bristol

Our God and Father, the Father of all who believe on Jesus Christ Thy Son, we thank Thee for creating us in Thine image, that when it would please Thee Thou couldst send the Son of God in the likeness of our flesh, that He might not only reveal Thee, but through His sacrifice on Calvary we might have the forgiveness of our sins. Accept our thanks for Him May we worship Thee in our service for Christ's sake. Amen.

Candle-Light Christmas Wedding of Interest to Many

A candlelight Christmas wedding elicited much interest locally last evening. The nuptial ceremony, which took place in Bristol Methodist Church at the hour of seven united Miss Anna Bailey Warwick daughter of Mr. Charles B. Warwick, 691 Bath street, and Mr. Herbert Bartle, 663 Bath street, son of Mrs. Harry Bartle, 1927 Chestnut street.

Yuletide greens were in evidence throughout the edifice, and the bride and her attendants wore costumes in keeping with the Christmas season. The bride was attired in white slipper satin, the gown, entwined, being cut on princess lines. With this was worn a full-length veil of lace and net, a beaded headpiece; and white satin slippers. The bridal bouquet was composed of red poinsettias with two green orchids at the center.

The maid of honor, Miss Alice Smith, Bath Addition, a cousin of the bride, was attired in a poinsettia red velvet; and the following bridesmaids in Christmas green velvet; Miss Elizabeth Smith, Bath Addition, cousin of the bride; Miss Bertha Bartle, Philadelphia, sister of the bridegroom; and Miss Jeanette Leinholser, Edgely. The gowns were floor-length and cut princess style, they featuring velvet bustle bows in the back. Each young woman carried a bouquet of white snow 'mums. Silver sequin head pieces and silver slippers completed the Christmas season costumes.

Mr. Bartle was attended by his brother, Mr. Walter Bartle, Fleetwing Estates, as best man; and the ushers were inclusive of: Messrs. Fred Bartle, brother of the bridegroom; Clarence Smith, Bath street, cousin of the bride; Robert Warwick, Bristol Terrace, brother of the bride. The ring bearer was James Smith, Bath street.

The bride entered the church to the notes of a wedding march played by organist, Miss Winifred V. Tracy. Miss Tracy was also the accompanist for Mrs. Ralph Hart, Bath Addition, who during the ceremony sang "The Lord's Prayer." Other vocal numbers by Mrs. Hart were: "Love Them," "Because," and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

The Rev. Charles Weller, pastor of the church performed the ceremony. Mr. Warwick giving his daughter in marriage.

A reception followed in the church social hall. Mr. and Mrs. Bartle then leaving for a honeymoon trip. They will reside at 541 Bath street.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rev. L. L. Clark, Th. M.
Pastor
First Baptist Church, Bristol

Our God and Father, the Father of all who believe on Jesus Christ Thy Son, we thank Thee for creating us in Thine image that when it would please Thee Thou couldst send the Son of God in the likeness of our flesh that He might not only reveal Thee, but through His sacrifice on Calvary we might have the forgiveness of our sins. Accept our thanks for Him May we worship Thee in our service for Christ's sake. Amen.

MINIMUM Cost-MAXIMUM Space

This Modern-Looking and Very Compact little house was designed to provide maximum space at a minimum cost. Equipped with relatively few windows, those provided for are unusually large, and located to afford the most possible light, the most attractive views.

By MARION CLYDE McCARTOLL

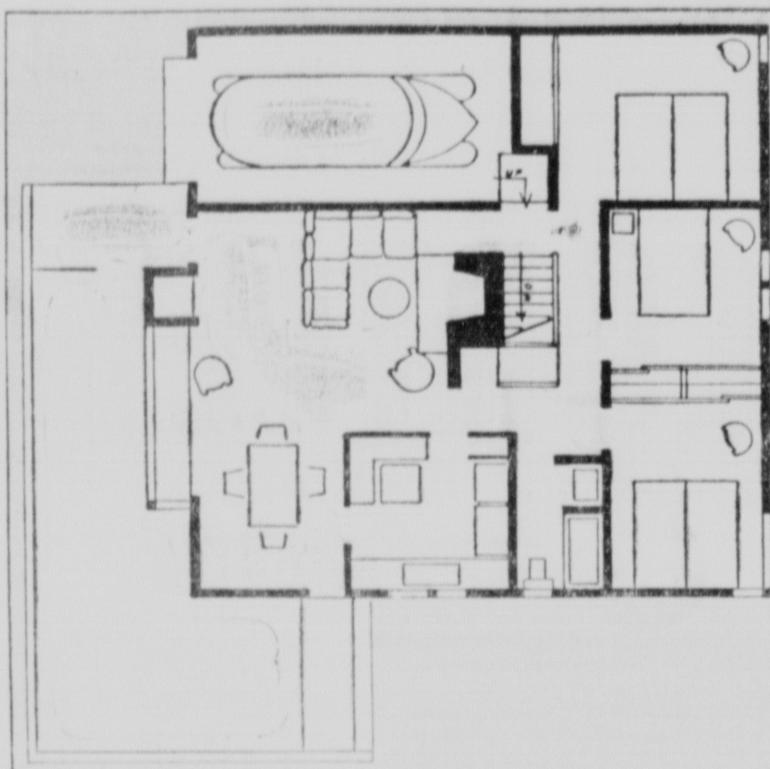

Most people planning to build their own homes today have four important requirements in mind:

Two of them are to get the greatest possible amount of space for the least possible cost. The two others are to secure quality building materials and sound and durable construction.

The architect who designed the house pictured here was particularly concerned with the first two points, the others being the responsibility of the builder. He chose a square house with a minimum amount of exterior wall space as a type which would best fulfill the conditions he had set himself. Suited to a suburban or semi-suburban lot, it has a cellar which runs beneath all of the structure except the garage, with the space under the living room intended for a playroom.

The three bedrooms at the back of the house accommodate five people, one single bedroom being set between two double ones. The dining area occupies part of the living room, while the kitchen has a door opening directly into the dining area and another which opens on to the back hall.

The house is one of those shown in a new book on home buying and building titled "A Home of Your Own."

Two Double Bedrooms, and One Single, offer sleeping accommodations for a family of five, conveniently separated from the living area.

PUP-FACED BLUECAT would try to enter it. When he returned after doing an eight-hour work shift, Duggan found out he was wrong. A uniform coat and automobile a short distance away, two pairs of uniform trousers from St. Louis Police Headquarters, which had been left in the car, were too didn't look it, hearing nobody come.

Don't Let Winter Catch You Unprepared, Safety Directors Warn

LIST THE REQUISITES

HARRISBURG, Dec. 17.—Don't let winter catch you unprepared motor vehicle owners and truck fleet operators were warned today by Director of Highway Safety T. Elmer Transue.

"Face the threats of wintry months ahead in confidence that your vehicles are in tip-top shape, particularly from the standpoint of safe driving," he advised. "Preparing an adequate defense will help you prevent accidents and traffic tie-ups. It's no fun to have mechanical misfires, an accident or to be stalled at any time, but it's doubly heartbreaking to run into trouble in bad weather and then realize that a little timely care would have prevented it."

Items requiring prewinter checkup were listed as follows:

WINDSHIELD—OKIFROSTERS &

WIPERS. You must see a hazard to avoid it when it gets cold or snows;

TIRES—Chain them

EXHAUST SYSTEM—Check for

SYSTEM—Check for possible detects, and carbon monoxide leakage into car;

ELECTRICAL SYSTEM—Inspect to prevent added moisture of winter causing short circuits;

HEADLIGHTS—Check for proper focussing and aim on bright and dim beams. Remember, you may even need lights during day when snow storms develop; and

THICKENS—Good treads are highly desirable because they help lots on wet pavements;

but even new treads or "rubber chains" won't aid on packed snow or ice. Only metal tire chains will bite into packed snow and ice, according to National Safety Council tests.

In addition to putting this standard and winter equipment in condition for seasonal use, Transue urged that drivers revise their driving habits when the bad weather arrives.

"Start a little earlier and reduce your speed," he advised. "Braking distances on snow or ice are three to 12 times greater than on dry pavements. Under severe snow or ice conditions, tire chains reduce passenger car braking distance 40 to 50 per cent. On heavier trucks, buses, and tractor-trailer equipment, anti-skid chains are still more essential. They cut truck skidding 60 to 70 per cent. Chains also provide needed traction for getting under-way or climbing a grade. Other special winter equipment include defrosters, heaters, warning flares and fuses to provide protection in case of breakdown under winter conditions."

STOCKHOLM (INS)—The Swedish people seem to be one of the most—if not the most—film-minded in the world according to an investigation recently made by the American periodical "Motion Picture Herald." In spite of its small population—less than seven million—Sweden with 2,462 cinemas ranks sixth among 49 countries investigated. The United States, with twenty times the Swedish population, has 16,500 theatres.

The General Electric engineer made the device at GE's Nolka Park in Cleveland to determine the amount of light needed for table tennis matches. The results have been adopted by the United States Table Tennis Association for tournament lighting and home play.

MCKEE ESTATE FOR A HOSPITAL

ot To Be Made To Get

AN NEGRO HOSPITAL

Philadelphia's Negro leaders will make an attempt to secure a major portion of the $800,000 estate of late Col. John McKee, Negro War figure, for the purchase of a hospital, the function of which would be wholly medical. The estate is now before the Orphans' Court. Judge Robert V. Berger for final adjudication.

During considerable ground during the last few days, the move is designed to make available adequate facilities for the training of Negro nurses and Negro graduate nurses, as well as toward the possibility of forwarding over-all hospital needs now recognized as acute. Supporters of the attempt, which will be brought before the Orphans' Court, believe that the interracial aspect of their proposal will place it well in the provisions of the original of the Negro merchant.

Col. McKee's will sought the use of many thought at the time of death, in 1902, to be an estate approximately $2,000,000, for the creation of a military academy which would train both Negro and white boys for the U. S. Navy. Having joined the Catholic Church after years of membership in the Black Street Presbyterian congregation, the Negro real estate owner entrusted the execution of his idea to that religious group, the local move has followed a division by Catholic leaders that per se execution of the will is possible with the amount of the estate's residue now available.

Bolger, in appointing Blessing, has announced that the court expects the attorney to advise the final disbursement. It has been announced that hearings, which will be open to prospective plaintiffs, will be scheduled next month.

The estate is allowed to be used by newly merged Mercy-Douglas Hospital set-up, leaders believe it might go far toward solving this problem in public health. The Frederick Douglass Memorial, one of the merged units, the older of the two, remains certified by a number of approaching units because of inadequate facilities. The Mercy organization, which occupies a block square site at 14th street and Woodland avenue, is certified to a limited degree, also handicapped by lack of adequate facilities and an outmoded heater. The move's supporters project the possible use of such as might be obtained from estate to rehabilitate the two vital plants now directed by trustees, or push for its use as a s for a much more expensive up, is not known. However,

Natural-Looking Eyebrows

Virginia Hunter, of the movies, has natural-looking eyebrows framing lovely, expressive eyes.

By HELEN FOLLETT
CONSIDERING that the emaciated eyebrow gives the feminine unbalance a brittle and mask-like appearance the sisters should realize that it is on its way out.

Women who have an appreciation for the beautiful, who are conservative, desire to look distinguished, never gone in for quirky directions or freaky eyebrow patterns. Their forehead scimitars are beautifully arched. There isn't a ray hair outside the fold. But for many of features they have kept truly close to a pleasing, natural

Now, don't fancy that teacher is old fad-budget. Look at the stars of the stage and the stars of the silver screen. No goofy-looking eyebrows on them. Every last fad must run its course. Eyebrow tweezing and teasing have been going on for twenty years. So for that matter, it was done hundreds of years ago. So what? Justitious.

there are leaders who, in all probability, would favor disposal of the present properties in favor of entirely different facility.

And while no statement has been made concerning it, it is known that both white and Negro leaders active in the improvement of minority public health, have long favored purchase of the University of Pennsylvania's Graduate Hospital at 19th and Lombard streets. In the heart of a section in which both whites and Negroes live, the Graduate Hospital fringes on expansive area of both business and residential activity. Southward, for approximately eight blocks, the population is largely Negro, while northward from Pine street few non-white residents are to be found.

The interracial possibilities, according to supporters of the move, include the establishment of a hospital which would have an integrated staff in all respects. The unit envisioned would be molded after New York's Sydenham Hospital, which in addition to an integrated professional staff, is also being redesigned to serve as a rehabilitation center in which problems affecting the whole interracial community will be considered.

In pointing out that the establishment of an interracial facility given to public health promotion would not be a wise departure, Dr. Eugene T. Hinson, surviving medical founder of Mercy Hospital, pointed out that of the patients served by his organization "a minimum of twenty per cent are white persons, with that group constituting 80 per cent of emergencies treated." In a letter to Attorney Blessing, Dr. Hinson said that while the Mercy setup has only a 125-bed capacity, "it is always in need of financial aid to carry on as a charity."

That the city's Negro physicians will also press the selection of the hospital set-up as the recipient of the McKee estate has been indicated in a statement issued here by Dr. Frederick M. Hopkins, president of the Philadelphia Academy of Medicine and Allied Sciences. A surgeon at both Mercy and Douglass hospitals for a number of years, Dr. Hopkins said that his group would support the move, "as the best use to which money amassed by a Negro citizen of Philadelphia could be put at this time."

Col. McKee, whose actual military service is not recorded, is thought to have become wealthy, originally, through the provision of homes for transplanted Negroes here in exchange for properties owned by them in Southern communities. One such transaction, according to local tradition, proved rich in soft coal in the West Virginia area. Sale of these holdings, it is thought, former the basis of wide real estate investments in New Jersey, Philadelphia and Bucks counties.

Upon his death, the Negro real estate dealer left his immediate family a total of approximately $600 from an estate then thought to be worth $2,000,000. Col. McKee's last surviving grandson, Dr. Henry McKee Minton, was a founder and for more than 20 years medical director of Mercy Hospital. It was Dr. Minton's death, approximately a year ago, which precipitated final adjudication of the will now before the Orphans' Court.

If you've ever pondered the difference between dried, dehydrated and evaporated fruits, don't give the matter further thought. The fact is all three processes achieve the same thing. They simply remove the water from the fruit, but do not affect its nutritional value or basic flavor.

Dehydration takes enough water out of some fruits to prevent the growth of molds and fermentation. Furthermore it cuts down the bulk of the fruit, enables the grower to ship more economically, and saves you money, especially when the same fruit in fresh form is out of season.

In the case of sugary fruits like dates, figs, prunes, grapes and apricots, open air or sun drying produces good results. This is a comparatively long process which affects the tissue cells and is, therefore, not desirable for preserving more delicate fruits. The same objections apply to ordinary indoor drying or evaporation.

The A & P Service for Home-Makers points out that dehydrated fruits and vegetables can be almost completely restored to full color and tang by soaking overnight in water. This merely reverses the drying out process.

Incidentally, dried fruits are almost certain to have been fully tree or vine-ripened when harvested. This assures a greater concentration of sugar, minerals and other health-giving qualities.

For a delicious Sunday dinner highlighting dried fruits, garnish baked ham with raisin sauce, serve with southern sweet potatoes, prime lettuce and pineapple salad, homemade rolls with peach preserves and for dessert, apricot pie and coffee.

HIBERNIANS PLAY FINE GAME AND BEAT PROFY TEAM

The Hibernians gave a fine exhibition of basketball last night as they trimmed the Profy team, 38-28, for their third straight win of the Bristol Basketball League. The game was played on the Rohm and Haas court.

Strong finishes in the second and fourth quarter gave the Hibernians the triumph. The Profy team had the edge in the first quarter but were held to three points during the second period playing. The 1946 champions shaved the Hibernian lead in the third quarter but in the finale, the Hibs scored 12 points while holding the radiomen to seven.

The Hibs did plenty of passing to their star shooter, "Johnny" Rodgers, with the result that the diminutive forward registered 13 points nine of which came in the second half. Joe McEvily, Joe Elmer, and Tom Donnelly were instrumental in the passing attack.

Ralph Cahill scored 10 points to lead the losers.

1 1/2 cups quartered marshmallows
1 cup small peanut brittle pieces
2 dozen vanilla wafers or shortbread cookies
8 red maraschino cherries

Combine whipped cream, marshmallow and peanut brittle. Place vanilla wafers on the bottom of a square pan. Alternate 3 layers each of peanut brittle mixture and cookies, using peanut brittle mixture as top layer. Garnish each serving with a cherry. Yield: Peanut Brittle Vanilla Cookie Desserts.

Potato and Peanut Croquettes

3 cups mashed potatoes
2 cups salted peanuts, ground
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion

1 tablespoon chopped pimento
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Corn, Okra and Tomato Meltz

4 strips bacon

1/2 cup bacon fat

1/2 cup finely chopped onion

1 1/2 cups canned okra

2 cups cooked kernel corn

1/2 cup peeled, diced tomatoes

1/2 cup chopped green pepper

1/4 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon Tabasco

1/4 teaspoon pepper

Fat for frying

Combine all ingredients. Shape into croquettes, roll in beaten eggs, then into dry bread crumbs. Fry in deep fat until the crumbs are brown.

Corn, Okra and Tomato Meltz

4 strips bacon

1/2 cup bacon fat

1/2 cup finely chopped onion

1 1/2 cups canned okra

2 cups cooked kernel corn

1/2 cup peeled, diced tomatoes

1/2 cup chopped green pepper

1/4 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon Tabasco

Fry bacon until crisp and drain on absorbent paper. When cool, crumble into small pieces. Melt fat in saucepan; add onion and cook until lightly browned. Add okra, corn, tomatoes, green pepper, salt, pepper and Tabasco. Cover and let simmer for about 25 minutes, stirring occasionally, until vegetables are tender. Turn into serving dish and sprinkle with crumbled bacon. Makes 6 servings.

BRISTOL HIGH TO FACE ACID TEST
AGAINST PALMYRA

Riding the crest of a four-game winning streak, the Bristol High basketeers will face their acid test of the infant season tonight when they line up against the strong Palmyra high school quintet. A pattern going. But this season's junior varsity game between the Bristol team caught on quick and two schools will get under way at 7:30 o'clock. The games will be played on the local wooden way.

The unbeaten Bunnies have topped George School, Buckingham, Abington, and Burlington. Their hardest obstacle was Burlington and tonight they will face a quintet that has been classed as better than the "Bucks."

Coach Bloom and his proteges are determined to make it five straight before taking their Christmas holiday vacation. The boys have been working together and Coach Bloom's pattern style of basketball has also begun to pay dividends.

Assistant Coach Harry McElister's junior varsity team will seek its third victory to get on the right side of the ledger. McElister, breaking in next season's varsity players, is more interested in building up a squad than anything. But his boys have managed to break even in the two games played and if victorious tonight will have a better than .500 mark for the pre-holiday season.

"Hello, Suckers!"

them to rob someone else in plous ways he would not resent.

"The customer is entitled to a break," was her motto. "Always fix the juke box so every customer will get one of his quarters back!" "Guinan and Gravy" was her slogan. It was unbeatable.

Take spuds. Everybody was hot and bothered about the high cost of living and some solemn professors groused about the government pricing potatoes out of reach with its cockeyed program of buy-subs and burn-em. But President Guinan wowed them. "Suckers you love this great big beautiful government, don't you? my wolves?" Think of my lovely plan for Federal aid to educators!" When the spent farmers recited how she wowed the professors, the mud vote was on the bag.

Then the potato farmers came to Washington, boasting mad about the high cost of sugar. They said: "Look here, what about the Commodity Credit Corporation buying up sugar to prevent a fall in price? What about it?" President Guinan said, "Suckers, you love the sugar I put in your spuds, don't you boys?" The boys did.

Then the sugar farmers got to bellyaching about the price of wheat and bread and the staff of life. They said: "Why did the government contract to buy more wheat in the Southwest than it had to sell, and run wheat up to three bucks? Information, please?" President Guinan informed them:

"Suckers, don't you remember what I did for sugar? I'm your sugar mamma." Well, that put another nail in the sugar vote, and locked up the wheat vote, too.

Then the CIO boys and their wives got blood in their eye about the price of eggs. They demanded that the price tag on eggs at 8 cents per egg carry the words "166,000,000 dozen eggs have been taken off the market by the government to hold up the price of eggs." But President Guinan smiled her sweet smile. "Suckers, you remember how I boosted your wages, don't you?" That ended that. They took out their egg growth on Big Business, but not the Business so Big it could buy two billion eggs and hold them until they got ripe.

It was a great system. Tex had the government juke box always give the customer a break. He always got one of his quarters back. Come election, she blamed the greedy profiteers for the high cost of living in the cities, and pointed with pride to the high prices she paid the farmers. She carried every county. Texas Guinan was the peoples' choice.

a buzz-saw as a vote-getter the late "Tex" Guinan would have been? Picture that lady in the White House. Why not? It wouldn't require such a tremendous flight of fancy. We almost had "Yogi" Wallace, didn't we? Anyway, just think how the folks would flock to Washington to see their new President, the Hon. "Tex" Guinan, in boots and urls and shiny six-guns in her belt. It is true that her own sex, which should have been proudest of her achievement, viewed her curves with some reservations but, boy, how she got the men to stop.

Her formula for political success was the simplest in the annals of the American stamp. She never said in solemn tones, "My fellow citizens." She knew her citizens were tired of being followed into taxes and debt and war and this European mess. Her greeting was always, "Hello, Suckers!" How they went for that. They knew they were suckers. They had searched a long time to find one honest politician who called them what they knew they were. They loved it; such refreshing frankness.

Her answer to all petitions for the redress of grievances was, "Suckers, you love it." There was no come-back to that. They knew they loved it. They knew that despite its frightful cost, this enormous gadget called government would somehow give them a bit of something-for-nothing; would enable

USEFUL GIFT FAR BETTER THAN ONE
COSTLY NOVELTY

By Flora-May Sagui
(Home Economics Representative)

A useful gift has little chance of spending its life on the shelf as a white elephant. Many inexpensive articles that can be used daily are especially good for kitchen gifts.

Many kitchen accessories, such as aprons, place mats, potholders, or dish towels, may be made at home. Another idea is to make up a package containing a measuring cup with a plastic or wooden handle, a wooden spoon, a spatula, a paring knife with a good hard stainless steel blade, and a scouring pad for metals. Any homemaker would appreciate receiving such an assortment of items.

For the woman who has an electric mixer, a plastic cover will make an excellent gift. Oil silk or plastic bags for fruits and vegetables and bowl covers of the same material are always good.

Instead of father and the children buying separate gifts for mother, the gift money is pooled and one big thing bought for her. This big item may be an electric sweeper, an ironer, a new washing machine, or an electric mixer. All members of the family will benefit from such an investment.

Town and city friends and relatives will appreciate a basket of mom and toasted make good snacks home canned foods, jellies, or radishes, or a basket of fruit and vegetables from your own orchard and garden. Whatever the gift, put it up in an attractive package.

BREAD MAY BE SAVED IN MANY WAYS, SO AS TO FEED THE HUNGRY

By Flora-May Sagui
(Home Economics Representative)

Every homemaker can help feed hungry Europeans and cut her own food costs by making a real attempt to conserve food in her own home.

Bread, more the staff of life to those in foreign countries now than to us in our land, is one of the most important items on the conservation list. In this country where diets are more varied, bread is often wasted.

The following suggestions are offered on ways to save bread:

Fut no more bread on the table than the family eats at a meal. Encourage members of the family to eat all they take.

If rolls or bread dry out only slightly, put in a brown paper bag, sprinkle the bag with water and heat in the oven to freshen.

If the bread is too dry for this treatment, toast it and serve for breakfast or as croutons with soup

Dry rolls, split, buttered and sprinkled with sugar and cinnamon and toasted make good snacks with afternoon tea or coffee. Keep them in a cookie jar.

Keep bread in a clean, dry bread box. Dry bread in the bread box absorbs moisture from fresh bread. So keep the dry bread in a separate can or sack. When you have time, grind it up and store crumbs in a jar. Use them for topping casserole dishes, and for coating croquettes or fish or breaded veal.

If you have much dry bread on hand use it in bread dressing to serve with roast fowl or roast pork. Stuff pork chops, heart, shoulder of lamb or flank steak.

Bread pudding dressed up with raisins or other fruit, or served with jelly is another way to use bread.

RECIPES

Pepper Rice Salad

2 medium-sized green peppers
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup rice
 5 cups boiling water
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup finely chopped onion
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon pepper
 $\frac{2}{3}$ teaspoons salt
 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
 2 tablespoons chili sauce
 1 tablespoon finely chopped pimento
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup diced celery
 Wash green peppers and cut off tops. Chop tops and reserve $\frac{1}{4}$ cup portion from peppers. Cut each pepper into 3 slices. Wash rice well. Heat water to boiling temperature and add $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoons of the salt. Add rice and cook about 10 minutes. Add celery and onion and cook until a rice kernel pressed between the tips of 2 fingers feels tender. Drain but do not wash. Cool. Add the $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped green pepper, remaining teaspoon of salt, mayonnaise, chili sauce, and pimento. Mix well. Fill pepper rings with mixture and arrange in heat-proof cups. Makes 6 servings.

Arroz Con Pollo

(Chicken With Rice)
 2 tablespoons salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon pepper
 1-4 pound roasting chicken, cut in medium sized pieces
 2 tablespoons shortening

1 tablespoon capers
 12 ripe olives, sliced
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sliced onions
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups (1 No. 2 can) canned tomatoes
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon Cayenne
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup rice
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup boiling water
 Combine 1 tablespoon of the salt and pepper and sprinkle over the pieces of chicken. Melt shortening in 6 quart saucepan. Add olives, capers, onion, tomatoes, Cayenne and chicken. Cover and let simmer over low heat for 30 minutes or until chicken is almost tender. Wash rice and add to chicken mixture. Add remaining tablespoon of salt to boiling water and pour over rice in saucepan. Cover and cook for about 20 minutes or until a rice kernel pressed between the tips of 2 fingers feels tender. Makes 6 servings.

Coffee Jelly

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup cold water
 2 tablespoons plain unflavored gelatin
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
 3 cups hot coffee
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon lemon juice

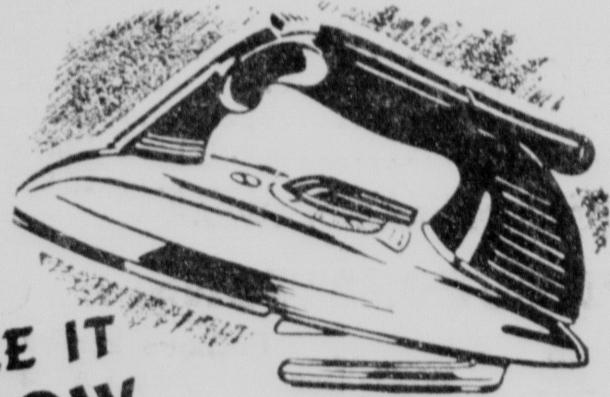

Soften gelatin in cold water about 5 minutes. Add coffee and sugar and stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice. Pour into mold and chill until firm. Unmold and serve with plain or whipped cream. Makes 6 servings.

ENNA. LEADS IN PROTECTING HEALTH

vesting Larger Sum Than Any Other State In
The Nation

$1,600,000 FOR 2 YRS.

repared for the Courier by the State Planning Board, Department of Commerce

The November Survey of State employment issued by the United States Census Bureau shows that Pennsylvania is now investing a larger sum for services in the protection of public health than any other State in our Nation. Our present two-year budget of approximately $1,600,000 for public health vers activities which are often quietly administered that the public does not realize the constant efforts being made to make our Commonwealth safer and safer for us all.

Some of the health services, of which most of us are little aware, include the examination of health conditions in more than a thousand bathing places; the inspection of drinking water used in trains, airplanes and by vessels in interstate commerce; and the examination of sanitary conditions in nearly 7,000 restaurants, and many hundreds of lunch wagons and other types of mobile eating places.
The State's Health Department investigates every case of Typhoid fever and similar communicable diseases to determine their source including the rare, but dangerous Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, of which 19 cases occurred in the State last year. It provides aids for health education, including moving pictures for use in the schools, which were shown in 47,000 classrooms in the past year. It conducts medical and dental examinations of school children, and has given this service to 809,000 school pupils and more than 22,000 teachers and school employees.

Sanatoria and clinics are maintained for the treatment of Tuberculosis and a State Mobile Unit in the past year made more than 165, 000 chest X-rays.

Health centers for the examination and treatment of pre-school children, particularly in the rural areas, are maintained in 180 localities throughout the Commonwealth and provide instruction for mothers in the care of their younger children.

Another very important field of public health activity is that of providing health safeguards and hy-genic service to the employees of more than 10,000 Pennsylvania industries, and the investigation of hundreds of plants in which particular health hazards may occur, highlighted by the insistence of Governor James H. Duff on the conservation of the State's natural resources are the efforts of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering for the control of stream pollution.
During the past year nearly 1,100 municipalities of Pennsylvania have been notified to provide or improve waste disposal facilities to prevent the pollution of our streams and rivers.

These and many other activities of the Department of Health in the State Government, the State Planning Board of the Department of Commerce points out, are among the soundest investments we have ever made in the future of our Commonwealth. They assure the people of the State that an all-out effort is being made to make Pennsylvania the safest and healthiest section in the Nation. They provide the background on which Pennsylvania's industrial progress over the next generation is certain to be based.
